

DAY 3 - ECEL

WORKHOP B

Are we heading in the right direction (Does the legislative law reform process assist Environmental Compliance and Enforcement Initiatives?)

“The EMI Evolution: Unlocking the Potential”

WORKSHOP OVERVIEW:

A plethora of environmental laws have either been introduced or amended over the last few years with the aim of promoting a sustainable environment. A frequently asked question in this regard is the extent to which compliance and enforcement activities have been incorporated into the legislative cycle in order to address these changes. This workshop will concentrate on what has been newly introduced and/ or changed and how it can work for the Inspectorate. Views from the regulated community will form an interesting feature of this workshop which will certainly stimulate good debate among the participants.

OUTCOMES:

Unlocking the potential of the provisions of the law in order promote sound environmental compliance and enforcement activities.

Who should attend?

EMIs/delegates who have an interest in the law reform process.

WORKSHOP FACILITATORS:

Sibusiso Shabalala (DEA), Melissa Fourie (CER) and Gregory Daniels (Cullinan and Associates).

Topic	Facilitators	Time
What is in there?	Sibusiso Shabalala	13h30 – 14h00
Will it ever work – Critical Reflection	Melissa Fourie	14h00 – 14h30
The good, the bad and the ugly	Gregory Daniels	14h30 – 15h00
TEA		15h00 – 15h15
Breathing life into the provisions of the law – Making it happen.	Group Discussions	15h00 – 16h00
Wrap up	All facilitators	16h00 – 16h30

environmental affairs

Department:
Environmental Affairs
REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

